Yeonjai Rah is the founder and director of BICA. She received her Ph.D. in Educational Policy and Leadership Analysis from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Her research area has been focusing on immigrant child education and cultural diversity in school. . She believes “Children shall not live on secular education alone, but on every word that proceeds out of the mouth of God”. She has been a big fan of C.S. Lewis. One of her desires is to communicate the Gospel through Narnia books with children.

Kathy Nichols has more than 30 years of writing, editing, publishing and training experience. She has done extensive web content development several software companies. Through the church, Kathy volunteers with Friendship International and also teaches Evening English Classes. She loves meeting and working with Internationals.

Donna Baird retired from teaching after 40 years. Her last 12 years were spent as an Elementary School Librarian. She has master’s degree in early childhood education. She loves children and delight in teaching them about good literature. She was Co-Director of Friendship International for several years and taught an ESL pronunciation class.
